WINEMAKER NOTES

Good things come to those who wait and what a wait it's been! 2015 was a hot year, producing big flavors but this monster takes the cake. It's spicy and savory with smoke, licorice, cedar, bacon and game backed up with the bold fruits of blackberries and blackcurrant. It also has a lovely nuttiness of smoked almonds and toasted bread. Let this one open up to show all of the different nuances it has to offer. It's a big wine but can be tamed if you have time or a decanter. Each time I am put my nose in the glass I come away with new flavors that I didn't note when I first opened it. With time the flavor of ripe and succulent plum develops.
